The Burmah Herald, a vernacular paper published in, The INTEREST due 17th day of November Bangoon, also states that one Burmese town parts of the distracted kingdom. The Mandalay correspondent of the Rangoon Times performance on the violin it would be difficult writes:- All at Mandalay and in the pro. to speak too highly; his purify of tone, fine vinces are praying for a change.

When the news came to Mandalay some time ago that the Meingoon Prince had reached the Shan states, a large number of men left, forgetting, in their eagerness to go and join him, the risks and uncertainties of the journey. Were he really to come and appear at to him, and carry him triumphantly to Mandalay, where not one single shot would be ble Tyler. fired in defence of THEEBAW, himself desorted even by the coolies whom he raised to official rank. The Nyoung Yan is as good as dead. No one seems to remember him, while all inquiries bear on the Meingoon. The Burmese have had enough of boy's rule and petticoat rule. They want a strong man as a king-one who will have the will and the power to keep his country in order, and to secure justice and freedom to all respectable and peaceful men within his kingdom. Were it possible that the Nyoung Yan could be helped to the throne by the British, what could prevent the Meingoon, at present restrained by the French, who are in treaty with TREEDAW, from reaching the Shan states, and marching with overwhelming numbers to the capital?" The same correspondent adds in a postscript to his letter that fifteen more men had just been executed by the tyrant's orders. It is evident that the King trembles hold on the affections of any of his subjects, he endeavours to strengthen his throne by the butchery of all his enemies, real or imaginary. The Burmere are only restrained from general insurrection by the sanguinary ferocity of the King, and would gladly welcome any change from his rule. It would, however, be a doubtful experiment to try any new native ruler, and least of all the Meingoon Prince, or any member of the reigning family, who have given nothing but trouble to the Indian Government, have usually ground their hapless subjects in the dust: We trust that Lord DUFFERIN will carefully consider this Burman question in all its bearings, and come to a decision to recommend the annexation of Upper to British Burmah, thus consolidating that territory, replacing anarchy by order, misery by prosperity, slavery by freedom, and helping forward progress, moral, political, and com-

while His Majesty was retiring from an audience he showed a jade ornament on his person to certain Beileh and asked him whether he had one like it. On the latter replying in affirmative, the Emporor expressed a desire to see it. The Beilch accordingly took the jade ornament from his own person and presented to His Majesty, who, after examining it, said was not very good. The Beileh, caught unawares, immediately handed another one to the Emperor, saving, "Hore is another much ignored the welfare of their country, and have prettier and better." His Majesty grew very angry, threw the ornament on ground and exclaimed. "Ah, you dared not show me the good one first because you were in fear that I would rob you of it." The "Olo Man" having prepared a "No. 1" capture of a number of Fukien, Kwang-tung, and pitch for this occasion, the ground being in first D'Asth ......... of cricket anticipated a rare treat last Friday and Saturday, and they were not disappointed, the Hendry The Club having won the toss and selected Wilson innings, Hodder and G. S. Coxon first appeared at the wickets to the bowling of D'Aeth and Hendry ....... Druitt and both playing in fine form 30 soon appeared on the telegraph. Druitt then "forked." Hodder for a good 13, and immediately afterwards bowled Stuart and E. J. Coron. (3 for 58). Hendry then joined G. S. Coxon, (who continued to spore freely), and a second stand was made, until a full pitch striking Hendry on the thigh cannoned into his wicket, (4 for 89). The next ball forte were all heartily applauded and several of Wilson played on, and Dobson then coming in the pieces were encored. He showed himself a remained only one over from Major Ward (during which he secred 3 and G. S. 'Am 'Meer," and Schumann's "Fruhling's and without adding to the score he was well caught in the slips by Drutt off Rice, for a grand innings of 78, made by an 8, a 5, six 4s, seven 3s, six 2s, and eight singles. Hisdriving was particularly good, and we did not see the slightest chance throughout the innings. Plumbs put together 9 before being bowled by Rice, and the last wicket fell for 133. Rice secured 3 wickets for 8 and Druitt 7 for 60 runs.

Major Ward and Hare were then deputed and Li Ching Ink, who were stone cutters, to know the two men who were leading the woman. Druitt and D'Aoth were then associated, and the latter at once hit Coron to square leg twice for 6 and 2, but in running the latter the ball was thrown against D'Aeth and rebounding from him on to the wicket, ran him out. Fortune had so far favoured the Club, 4 they mot at Bowrington two men coming with the beach by the side of the road. He got off good wickets having fallen very luckily for only 37. A good stand was made on the arrival of Bunbury, though the bowling was too good for many runs to be scored, and the total amounted to 49 before a change was deemed necessary and Hendry was abunted for Wilson. The first over the same leg and another, and recognised 6th inst. he was on patrol duty on the Shaukiof the change was, however, sufficient to dismiss Bunbury, clean bowled, and the first ball of the

On resumment on Saturday the remainder of the team were soon dismissed, and the innings closed for 99, Jarrett carrying his bat for singles. Wilson obtained 4 wickets for 16 runs, Coron 3 for 49, and Hendry 1 for 24.

With-34 runs to the good the Club went in with renewed vigour, and from the way in which say that it will be impossible to save anything. E. J. Coxon and Hodder commenced, a long score appeared imminent; at 43, however,  $\mathbf{E}$ ,  $\mathbf{J}$ , The Hu-ngo publishes the following anecdotes | Coxon was bowled by Rice for a hard hit and of the vouthful Emperor of China. One day well played 38, and two overs later the same bowler dismissed Plumbe and G. S. Coxon with following balls, his analysis at that time being 11 overs, 8 maidens, 3 wickets, 8 runs. Stoke was then feelishly run out (4 for 45), and the teams adjourned for tiffin in the Pavilion, followed by a photograph by Afong.

On resuming no better luck attended the Club, as Hodder was caught by long stop after most patient innings of 9 (5 for 52), and Hendry well caught at mid on. (6 for 56). Stuart and Wilson then stopped the set for a short time, by making 8 and 14 respectively, but the 9th wicket fell for 78, and the partisons of the Garrison were inbilant. The two old veterans Darby and Taylor, however, put some life in the game, the former especially distinguishing himself by three hard outs, quite in his old form, and when he was capitally stumped by Bunbury from one of Rice's leg-balls, the score stood at 97, leaving the Garrison 132 to get to win. Rico bowled 7 wickets at once." The follower prayed to know into for 33 runs while Druitt on this occasion could only score 2 for 48.

With 2 hours to make the runs, Major Ward and D'Aeth commonced the innings, but the first named left at 15, well caught at the wicket, and Rice quickly followed, being badly run out by D'Aeth after he had scored 1. D'Aeth and Druitt then made a long stand, hitting hard and running for every touch, however small, and the score went rapidly up to 81, before Druitt was well caught at the wicket. Bunbury, however, was bowled at 116, D'Aeth caught in the long field at 118, and Maturin bowled the next without scoring (8 for 118), and the hopes of the Club revived. Captain Gordon and Hare were, however, equal to the occasion, and the match was won, without further loss, by then called together, and at a solemn conclave it 3 wickets. 15th November. The people in the interior are much agitated by the conflicting rumours in regard to the war. No one seems to know the cause of the war or with what nation it is being waged. It is spoken of as the foreign robellion in the south and all foreigners are supposed to be implicated. Daily, men who have deserted from the encampments at Tungchow and near Chefoo, are hastening into the interior begging food by the way. Each tells his own story, and as no one seems to grade. Also that the following articles he betell the truth it is not surprising that the people are greatly perplexed. A number of great battles are reported to have been fought at Chefoo and at other points on the coast. Sometimes the Chinese were victorous, at other times the reverse. It is when the Chinese troops are defeated and the soldiers flee for their lives that these deserters escape, according to their own statements. One of the latest rumours widely circulated is that the enemy fired unexpectedly upon an encampment, and twenty thousand soldiers were scattered beyond recall. In some places there have been during highway robberies, supposed to have been committed by this class. Some of the local officers have issued proclamations calling on the people to take measures o protect themselves. Chang Kao-yuan and Liu Chao-vu ensconced themselves with two battalions each from different regiments, behind the hill at the back of the large fort in order to prevent the enemy from circumventing our forces, and a battalion of the hillmen enrolled by Li-T'ung-ên, under Chang Litch'eng, were con called in a gully in the hill on the northern road. These arrangements had ju been completed when a lateral fire was opened by the enemy's ships, which discharged no less than several hundred rounds from their heavy guns, filling the sky with smoke and flame, the shell falling round like hail. While this fire was going on. about a thousand of the enemy's troops were embarked in launches and foreign bosts and landed at three points on the shore from whence they made a straight rush for the fort, their bearing

The enemy, being unable to hold their own, finally broke and fied, our men pursuing them to the sea shore, where SPORTING GUNS and RIFLES, REVOLences which disturb the regions further south to some seventy or more were drowned in the struggle to get to the boats. The enemy's ships while endeavouring to cover this retreat with their note-issuing houses than I have known at one guns struck one of their own steam-launches, and a Gatling gun which had been left behind was captured by our men. The two divisions under the command of Sun K'ai-hue were the foremost to carry out his longer period than any others; they had consequently the largest number of casualties, three lieutenents being killed and over a hundred privates. All the other battalions also suffered The above particulars of the victory were reported to the Memorialist by Sun K'al-hua, and ne would draw attention to the fleroe attack made by the enemy's troops on this occasion upon the port of Hu-wei, when they landed their men with a fixed determination to gain the day, the intensity of their resolve to fight to the It is reported here that a body of 8,000 men death being evidenced by the fact that their boats stood out to sea as soon as the men had been landed, in order to cut off their retreat. After the destruction of the fort our men had no guns to protect them, and had to rely. solely on their own muscle in the deadly struggle that took place. Though shot and shell rained down upon them their courage never failed them. nor did they once flinch; and in spite of the odds against them they managed to behead the standard-beerer and frustrate the flores intentions of the foe, therein assuredly displaying energy of no ordinary kind.
